

What are your thoughts surrounding the struggle? Really think about it. Where did the thoughts come from? Was it something someone said to you? Write them down...

You may need more space and that is fine. Take the time to work through at least one issue every time you do this.

What is the Truth?
